

CAITLIN REILLY

REPORTER

I'm a reporter based in Washington, D.C. Though I've covered everything from city minimum wage laws to K-12 education philanthropy, politics and government are my true passion.

I care about story, whether that's on the job or outside of work through the podcast I produced or the stories I've told on stage.

I love the energy of the newsroom and the rush I get when I beat someone else to a story. I want to chase down the latest leads and work alongside colleagues who push me to do better. At every outlet I've worked for, I put in more than was asked of me because I care about the job and am passionate about the craft.

I would love the opportunity to bring my drive and dedication to your publication.

Thank you for your consideration.
